Huawei Announces Entry for "Seeds for The Future" Program

Huawei Nigeria today announced the call for entry from Nigerian university student to enter this year's seeds for the future program. Seeds for the Future is Huawei's global CSR flagship program. Initiated in 2008, the program seeks to develop local ICT talent, enhance knowledge transfer, promote a greater understanding of and interest in the ICT sector.

Over the years, Huawei has been investing in ICT skills and knowledge in Nigeria in an effort to boost employment, foster the development of knowledge-intensive products and services, and enhance the ICT skills of the future generations. Huawei has done this successfully by implementing and supporting a number of schemes such as the Growing Girls and Women in Nigeria (G-Win), 1000 Girls in Training, scholarships for The African University of Science and Technology (AUST), engineers training programs.

This marks the third consecutive year, where smart lucky Nigerian student are picked through a detailed and objective selection process to partake in Huawei's global CSR program. The ten (10) successful candidates from this year's Seeds for the Future program will proceed to Beijing and Shenzhen China for the all-expense paid training in September 2018.

Catching up with one of the successful participants that went to China last year Ms Victoria Aduwo said in her comment to us "we learnt so much about ICT and got first-hand experience in a global ICT firm from leading ICT facilitators. I got hands-on with state of the art technologies. I learnt about Smart Cities, Smart Agriculture, and Telemedicine".

This year, the entry process will be open to all legitimate Nigerian student currently studying a technological, computing or engineering based course in a legally registered university or higher institution of learning.
